

2021 Angel Tree Family

Circumstances:

Doloreis is currently a single mom to 5 children (with her 6th child unexpectedly on the way). Doloreis came to The Salvation Army as a referral from a local domestic violence shelter where she and her children were seeking safety. With the help of The Salvation Army, the family was able to receive case management services and rental assistance to move them into a safe and stable home, away from the abuser. Since leaving the domestic violence situation at her previous household, Doloreis is “starting over,” and there are many items the family had to leave behind during their flee. After leaving the abuser, Doloreis found out she was pregnant, and has had significant complications along the way. She is considered high-risk and is currently unable to work due to being on bedrest, which has been a mental struggle since she has worked full-time for most of her adult life.
